Oh wow! She's closing? How come? That is too bad but hopefully you can rent a chair at the other place too...it looks really nice and it's still in wakefield which is awesome!

So last night I got to the daycare and as soon as I walked in the director told me we need to talk about devin's behavior! I was not happy! There is a kid in his class that has some issues, there have been times that I can hear him screaming from in the parking lot. Anyways devin decided he was gonna copy everything he did yesterday. So he was not allowed to watch tv when we got home and then he was still being fresh so he was put in timeout and eventually I just put him in his room and closed the door cause I couldn't deal with his attitude. So today hopefully will be a better day he said he was going to say sorry to his teachers and be a good boy, not sure if I believe him or not but I will give him the benefit of the doubt.

So this weekend let's see: tonight nothing, tomorrow we are going to a bbq at jon's brother's, Sunday hopefully beach if it's nice out
